

Venice considers cable TV changes

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Deregulation of the cable television industry scheduled in January 1987 probably will produce some changes in local cable TV operations, said Robert J. Owen, group vice president of Cencom Cable Associates.

Owen appeared Tuesday night before the City Council requesting transfer of the franchise agreement from Southwestern Cable TV Ltd. to Cencom Cable Associates of Chesterfield, Mo.

CENCOM CURRENTLY serves about 90,000 subscribers in the St. Louis County area, Owen said.

First Carolina Communications, parent company of Southwestern Cable TV Ltd., has entered into an agreement with Cencom for the sale of its cable TV system.

Twenty-two municipalities in which Southwestern Cable holds franchise rights still must decide if they will approve the changeover, Owen said.

AREA GOVERNMENTAL entities already granting approval include Marvill, Madison County, St. Jacob and St. Clair County, Cencom reported.

Owen responded to questions from the aldermen and invited Mayor

Tyrone Echols and council members to check his company's service and business record with officials in communities where the firm delivers a cable system.

"WE ARE headquartered in Chesterfield, but we will keep the Marvill office open," Owen said. Deregulation of the cable television industry in January may mean a modest increase in subscriber fees, but this is not certain, he said.

"There may be some additional programming we will be adding, but I can assure you that we are not dropping any channels," Owen said.

TIE ST. LOUIS Cardinal Baseball Network, a pay channel, would be added to the cable system under Cencom, the officer said.

Some displeasure with Southwestern's failure to hook up public outlets in Venice, as promised by the company last year, was expressed by the aldermen.

"They (Southwestern) promised a lot of things a couple of years ago, but some of them haven't been done," 4th Ward Alderman Victor Valentine Sr. said.

"This (public access) service is available to any city at police and fire stations, city hall, schools and libraries."

Teacher plan touchy issue

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A teacher assessment plan created by the District 9 Board of Education was submitted to the Illinois Board of Education last week.

Details are being kept secret because of pending teacher negotiations, said Gib Wamsley, District 9 superintendent.

"It might have to be amended," Wamsley said. "We've made the decision not to implement the plan until all issues have been resolved," he said.

The district is negotiating with the American Federation of Teachers in Granite City on a new contract. Evaluation is a negotiating item, Wamsley said making any part of the plan public could jeopardize the negotiations.

The plan was presented to the board by Personnel Director Terry Salem at the board's regular meeting on Sept. 23. The board voted unanimously to authorize the administration to send the plan to the state Board of Education.

The district has scheduled a meeting for administrators to discuss implementation of evaluations on Oct. 18.

AFT President Russell Chappell said disclosure of parts of the plan would not disrupt the negotiations.

"There are parts that are not subject to negotiation because we have tentatively agreed to them," Chappell said.

But he said some parts being negotiated are sensitive to teachers and disclosure may make it more difficult for teachers to agree on a final package.

"It still has to go to the teachers for a vote," he said.

There are 411 district teachers. An 11-member teachers committee is negotiating with the district.

Chappell said teacher evaluations are new to the district and many teachers want to insure the evaluations are fairly administered. Two evaluation issues of concern to teachers are attendance and who does the testing, said Chappell.

"Teachers get real sensitive when the question of their attendance comes up in evaluations. They say 'I don't feel well, should I go to school,'" Chappell said.

Also of concern is the evaluation process.

"Whose going to do the testing?" Chappell asked. "Is it going to be someone more qualified than I (as a teacher being evaluated)?" he said.

A negotiating session that will include discussions of the assessment was expected to be held Friday afternoon.

Chappell said there are likely to be amendments and additions to the plan. The plan will eventually be part of the contract between teachers and administrators, he said.

Under a new Illinois education law, all school districts were to present a teacher evaluation plan to the state Board of Education by Oct. 1.

The law calls for a plan to be developed "in cooperation" between teachers and administrators. A joint committee was formed by the district last year. The assessment plan given to the state was written by the district personnel office taking recommendations of the committee.

The law, which is part of the Illinois Educational Reform Act, gives guidelines about how districts are to form evaluation plans.

Teacher evaluation procedures districts are to adopt include:

- Personal in-classroom observation of the teacher by a district administrator.

Plan Commission to meet Oct. 9

GRANITE CITY — The regular meeting of city's plan commission will be held Thursday, Oct. 9, and reconvene on Thursday, Oct. 16.

The meeting is being reconvened due to constraints on meeting time, said Mary Jo Akeman, commission secretary.

BOTH THE regular and reconvened meetings will start at 7 p.m. at Granite City Hall, 2000 Edison Ave.

Petitions for the annexation of 3022, 3024, and 3031 Mockingbird Lane and 2537 Buenger Blvd. will be considered by the commission Oct. 9.

Recommendations from the Southern Illinois Planning Commission (SWIMPAC) and plans for the third addition to the Foreman Heights Subdivision, located at Morrison Road and Illinois 3, will also be reviewed.

ON OCT. 16, the commission will consider a petition from the Tri-City Port Authority to rezone a 5.6 acre tract from residential (R-3) to a light industrial district (M-2).

Also to be considered is a petition from Larry Hansen to rezone 1600 and 1602 Pontoon Road from single-family residential (R-2) to a highway commercial district (C-5).

Street work in Venice

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Parking will not be allowed on city streets in the north end of Venice starting Monday, Oct. 6.

Oiling and chipping of city streets will begin Monday in the north end of town, weather permitting. Street Superintendent Tom Scaturro reported at the City Council meeting Tuesday.

SCATURRO ADVISED residents and others to park vehicles in driveways, on adjacent streets or property this week to allow full access to street maintenance vehicles.

"Get the cars off the streets," the superintendent said.

Street oiling will commence at the north end of Mercedia Street and proceed south to Bissell Street.

OILING AND CHIPPING of area cross streets, including Logan, Calhoun, Douglas, and Allen streets, also will take place during the initial phase of the work, Scaturro said.

Police officers will be touring the work area, also advising residents to move any vehicles parked at the curb, Police Chief Farris Smith said.

Salt contract award in Venice

VENICE — A salt contract was awarded by the Venice City Council Tuesday to DomTar Co. of Chicago on a low bid of $21.33 per ton delivered.

A second bid required the city to pickup the salt mixture and cost 67 cents per ton more than DomTar's price.

In other action

- Venice Fire Department will host the October meeting of the Madison County Firemen's Association.

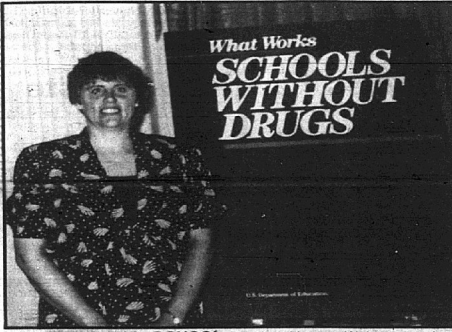

Fire and rescue groups from 39 communities belong to the county association.

Fire Chief Willie Dumas invited city officials to attend the dinner session at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16 at the Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307 Home, 704 Broadway.

A check for $3,713 was returned to the city in September by Circuit Court Clerk Willard Partell. The funds represented fines collected in court action during the month of August, Circuit Smith reported.

Arrests were 259 tickets on charges, including 219 charges for city traffic violations and 43 for state traffic violations.

Twenty-two juveniles were booked on 22 charges, including nine for violating city ordinances.

MARSHALL SCHOOL teacher Nancy Weber stands in the East Room of the White House during a ceremony.

GC teacher invited to White House

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — A special invitation to visit the White House is a rare occurrence.

But that is what happened to Granite City grade school teacher Nancy Weber.

WEBER, a first-grade teacher at Marshall School, was invited to attend a White House ceremony introducing the U.S. Education Department publication "Schools Without Drugs" on Sept. 23. The ceremony included talks by first lady Nancy Reagan and Secretary of Education William Bennett.

Though Weber was not able to speak personally with the first lady, Weber was impressed by Reagan's address in the East Room to about 250 teachers, parents' and administrators.

"SHE WAS VERY gracious and a down-to-earth person," said Weber. "She spoke to the group ... on the

The trip was Weber's first to the White House and, because public tours of the White House were closed for the ceremony, Weber walked freely through the first floor.

Artist says, 'There's something magic about it'

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — An artist begins with painting a basket of fruit or a green forest with a running stream.

After that comes the challenge — working with live subjects. Granite Citian Gloria Spence is meeting that challenge.

Sunday focus

SPENCE, a professional artist for 18 years, said painting and drawing people creates friendships.

"You get to meet the people," she said. "They are their true selves."

Her specialties are sketchings and paintings of people from all ages and backgrounds, she said. Though she does some work by photograph, she prefers working with live subjects.

"THEY LOOK good and I have to get them drawn," Spence said.

Through this, Spence said the subject and artist begin to communicate.

"There's something magic about it," she said.

ONE OF HER many works was a painting of twins Catie and Sara Decourcy. Catie is afflicted with leukemia.

One of her prized works is a painting of "Freddie the Freelander," a character portrayed by entertainer Red Skelton on his television program. Spence said she painted Freddie in 1968 from a picture in TV Guide.

"He (Skelton) is an artist himself," Spence said. "I've never met him, but I think a lot of him."

HER EARLY art training came from a teacher, Mrs. Ellsworth, in Buffalo, N.Y., where Spence was born and reared. Spence said she never knew her teacher's first name.

"She taught me all the rudiments of art," Spence said.

She also attended the Commercial Art Institute in St. Louis where she received a degree in graphics. Spence works for Victoria Products in St. Louis.

FOR TEN YEARS, Spence has worked a booth at the Fourth of July festivities at Wilson Park where she sketches people. The first year she was at the park, Spence said she was escorted out because she didn't have approval to be there.

Spence uses either oil paints or pastels on paper or canvas for all of her work. She said she likes the oils and pastels due to their color reproduction.

With the pastels, Spence said she uses her fingers to blend the colors and create the images. With oils, she uses a soft brush.

SPENCE SAID she has a high appreciation for the great artists and learns from their works.

"I appreciate their dedication to art," she said. "They all had a goal in life."

Spence has recently turned her talents to cartooning. Teaming up with Granite Citian Ed Buckman, the two have produced several editorial cartoons that have been published in the Press-Record/Journal.

THOUGH NEW at it, Spence said she is getting the feel for cartooning.

"It's kind of different," she said.

"He (Buckman) has inspired me very much."

Whether it's painting a child or drawing a cartoon, Spence said her talent is also a gift.

"It's definitely a gift from God," she said.

Dr. King and South Africa

By John West Jr.

If Martin Luther King, Jr. were alive today, he would be weeping over the tragedy unfolding in South Africa.

He would weep because the leading opponents of apartheid have decided that violence is the only method to bring about change. They are so filled with hatred that they won't even consider participating in dialogue and negotiations.

The ultimate demonstration of this occurred recently when Rev. King's widow, Coretta Scott King, went to South Africa to try valiantly to open up the doors of dialogue. She wanted to meet with all sides with moderate blacks like Chief Mangosuthu Buthe, with radical blacks like Winnie Mandela of the African National Congress, and even with Pieter W. Botha, head of the white regime.

Mrs. King wanted to meet with all sides, but she didn't.

The leaders of the anti-apartheid groups which the media press most loudly, spurred Mrs. King's efforts at mediation. Rev. Allan Boesak, a founder of the United Democratic Front, said he wouldn't talk with Mrs. King if she talked with President Botha. Winnie Mandela, the wife of jailed African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela, took the same line. So Coretta King cancelled her meeting with Botha and with moderate black leader Chief Buthe. Only after this cave-in did people like Winnie Mandela welcome Mrs. King with open arms. They didn't want her help in mediation, just her blessing. Mrs. King has promised to try to meet with Botha in the future — but don't bet on it. The radical leaders of the anti-apartheid movement won't let her.

It is crucial to recognize that the shameful treatment of Mrs. King represented far more than just a snub of a single individual. It represented a wholesale rejection of the pathway of non-violence epitomized by Mrs. King's late husband — a rejection by the very groups that the anti-apartheid movement in this country urge us to support, namely the United Democratic Front and the African National Congress.

These two groups have been depicted in the American media as the moral progeny of Martin Luther King. But they have turned out instead to be the philosophical brothers of Malcolm X and Louis Farrakhan.

They not only accept the use of violence in South Africa, they encourage it. Take last year's bombing of a crowded shopping center just before Christmas. The explosion killed three children, two women and maimed 48 others. The African National Congress guerrillas who admitted they planted the bomb was executed earlier this month — along with two other guerrillas who executed the bombing. The ANC member who they thought had betrayed the revolution. The ANC guerrilla who planted the bomb in the shopping center was unrepentant. "I hope other comrades will take up where we left off," he said before his death. One might think that even the most virulent opponents of apartheid would not condone such people. Wrong. Rev. Sol Jacob, assistant general secretary of the South African Council of Churches, called the executed guerrillas "three more casualties in the struggle for freedom... Many more will make sacrifices, and many more will have to die." The United Democratic Front likewise termed them "freedom fighters."

But the praise bestowed upon these guerrillas pales before something even more insidious: The acquiescence of anti-apartheid leaders to the mass killings of moderate blacks who seek work with the government to promote change. From March to June 5 of this year, ANC guerrillas and their associates have murdered 172 such blacks by the "necklace." Surely one of the most barbaric methods of torture devised since the era of Hitler, the "necklace" is a gasoline filled tire hung over a person's neck. The tire is then lit — after the victim's hands have been hacked off. Death by the necklace is neither quick nor pretty. It generally takes around 20 minutes for the victim slowly to burn and die. The American television networks, so eager to show us Buddhists meditating themselves during the Vietnam War, have strangely refused to let us even glimpse one of these gruesome spectacles. Perhaps their news departments are afraid such scenes would shatter our faith in those they portray as fighting for justice?

Let one think that the use of necklaces is not sanctioned by the African National Congress, ponder the words of the indomitable Winnie Mandela earlier this year (as reported by Agence France Presse): "Together, hand in hand, with our boxes of matches and our necklaces, we shall liberate this country."

In comparison with Mrs. Mandela, the white government in South Africa appears to be positively decent.

Will Pat Robertson hurt Republicans?

By Thomas F. Roeser

Editor's note: Thomas F. Roeser, founder of the Republican Assembly of Illinois, is president of the City Club of Chicago and a regular commentator on Chicago public radio and television stations. He authors, "On The Other Hand," a conservative view on Illinois politics and government."

About Pat Robertson, is he likely to damage Republican chances in 1988 in the same manner Jesse Jackson did in 1984 and threatens to do in 1988 to the Democrats?

That's the liberal and journalistic cliché. In addition, the liberal wish. Aside from the fact that Robertson and Jackson are ministers, there is no similarity between them personally or their constituencies. To be successful Jackson's movement must win a place for him in either first or second position on the ticket. Robertson, on the other hand, promises of a major cabinet role, certainly exceeding the one given to Andrew Young, ambassador to the National Endowment for the Arts. The dilemma is that to do any of these things would certify defeat and worsen, perhaps fatally, the already Near fatal hemorrhage of white voters from their national party; yet to alienate the blacks, the only viable constituency within the party, would be to possibly court doom.

Robertson, in contrast (even given his apocalyptic view of events), presents nothing but strength for the Republicans unless, of course, he is seriously manhandled by the likely nominee. The evangelical voters he brings likely voted, of course, for Ronald Reagan; but Robertson brings their phenomenal energies to the political market-place to operate for the GOP within party primaries, guaranteeing their place in the party platform and, in general, the position of the presidential nominee.

Will Robertson grumble if he loses, pick up his marbles and go home, signaling to the evangelical masses not to vote for the GOP victor? He can hardly do that unless the victor would be in the cast of Sen.

Lowell Weicker, which is a political impossibility (given the way the GOP is pointed now), or former Sen. Howard Baker, a quiet-spoken but dissembling liberal on social issues whose nomination would be distinctly unlikely. But it is almost a certainty that the nominee will be one of four: Bush, Kemp, Dole, and Lasker. Robertson does not "own" his constituency; nor does Jackson, although the heavily black racial component of his group has been shrewdly manipulated by him, in inner-party negotiations, to serve as a cudgel.

Given that Robertson winds up with a couple hundred delegates, he can serve as a broker, would that be disastrous for eventual party victory? Of course not given the nature of our four exceedingly likely contenders. Robertson's only disadvantage in an electoral sense would be the potentially miraculous aspect of his ministry which is subject to such wide misunderstanding in the secular society. His broad issue positions merge totally with Republican platforms of 1984 and 1988.

Is Congress heading the wrong way?

To the editor:

Back in 1938, a young pilot named Douglas Corrigan left New York to fly to Los Angeles. Just 23 hours and 45 minutes later, he landed in Dublin, Ireland, earning the nickname "Wrong Way" Corrigan.

There are some in Congress who appear determined to repeat Corrigan's dubious achievement. After deregulating the airline industry in 1978, producing more competition and major savings for travelers, they are now trying to undo the process of the last eight years.

At issue is H.R. 4838, a bill that would impose "labor protective provisions" on all airlines involved in business transactions that could adversely affect employment, wages, working conditions, or the seniority of the airline employees. In today's highly competitive airline industry, that could include just about every carrier.

Labor protective provisions are unprecedented in a deregulated industry. In fact, the only precedent was in a regulated industry — the airlines before 1978. When airlines merged under regulation, the federal government required payment to laid-off employees of 50 percent of their salaries for up to five years, continuation of fringe benefits including health and life insurance, and compensation for relocation expenses.

Air-carriers were hard-pressed to afford that even when fares were set by the government and they were protected from competition. There is no way they can afford it now.

Indeed, in today's highly competitive airline industry, some carriers are on the ropes, seeking mergers or buyouts in order to stay afloat. Imposition of labor protective provisions would surely be a death knell for these companies, destroying thousands of jobs. It would be bad for the airlines and even worse for the warde. The diminished competition would lead inexorably to higher fares.

Perhaps worst of all, H.R. 4838 would upset the collective bargaining apparatus. Job security is the number one union goal in contract negotiations today. To simply give the unions what they now must bargain for would be a major blow to the airlines at a time when many need labor concessions to remain solvent.

H.R. 4838 would, in effect, repudiate the deregulation of 1978, forcing airlines to protect unnecessary jobs, maintain artificial wage and benefit levels, and perpetuate labor inefficiencies.

Some way "Wrong Way" Corrigan never really meant to fly to Los Angeles. He applied for permission to fly to Ireland but was turned down because his aircraft was deemed unsafe. He may have made the "wrong way" story to avoid prosecution.

I suspect the authors of H.R. 4838 are engaging in the same kind of denial. They claim they want to protect airline employees, but their real goal is "reregulation" of the airline industry.

Seeks public's support

To the Editor:

In the upcoming days, Madison County voters will be electing a new sheriff, and in my judgement, the choice should not be a difficult one. The voters should elect a sheriff. Simply, if we will not tolerate the crime in our unincorporated areas and understand that it is the sheriff's duty to protect the safety and peace of mind of our rural residents, we will elect Tom sheriff. If we are tired of the needless deaths and maimings which occur on our roads due to reckless driving, alcohol and drugs, we should act to ensure safe roads and confidently support Mr. Voloski. Assuredly, we residents want to make Madison County a very unpleasant place for the drug pushers who menace our schools and for the thugs who destroy our families.

Madison County voters have a flourishing crime often reflects unresponsive law enforcement and they want to remedy that. With more than 10 years of law enforcement experience himself, he knows what works in beating crime.

Competent, expert, and overwhelming ability Tom Voloski will restore the visibility and effectiveness of our sheriff's department. A good man wants to serve us as our new sheriff. Let us support Tom Voloski our support on Nov. 4.

Waiting in lines for a lifetime

Being an Army veteran, I am usually very patient when it comes to waiting in lines.

I remember being awakened at 5 a.m. so I could run double-time to the mess hall just to wait outside in the rain, for two hours before eating breakfast. I could have easily slept for at least another hour, or more, and walked to the mess hall with time to spare, but that's too logical for Uncle Sam's boys.

Breakfast wasn't the only time we waited in the Army and now I can wait in lines for a long while without getting too upset, but there are exceptions.

On the top of my list of all-time pet peeves for having to wait in line is standing in a store's express checkout lane behind someone with a shopping cart full of items.

This is the lane that's marked with big red letters, "8 items or less."

Of course they have eight bars of soap, but that only counts as one item because it's all soap and it's all the same brand.

And don't forget the six packs of notebook paper for the children — that's only one item, too. And the four pairs of blue jeans are only one item.

Columnists' Club

By Pat Foley

Back to the wait.

So the cashier rings up the purchases, despite the number of items. First, the cashier has to make sure we have any cash, just a checkbook.

You know the sign with "8 items or less"? It also has on it very clearly "Cash Only."

The cashier, unable to accept anything but cash, now has to void the purchases and ask the person to get into another lane where checks are taken.

Have you ever tried to get people with carts to back up in a checkout lane to wait for the cashier to get the money? Finally, get to the checkout with my one lightbulb. Hurrah!

Second on my list of all-time pet peeves for waiting in line longer than I have to is standing behind anyone using plastic to pay for their purchases.

The use of credit cards dramatically affects our nation's economy, in my opinion for the worse, but that's another story. It seems like almost everyone is using plastic to pay for everything.

It started with gasoline and now encompasses just about everything that can be bought.

But having to wait for these people to use their cards rather than paying with cash really irks me.

First, the cashier has to ring up the purchase on the credit card form, then run the form and credit card through the gadget that transfers the raised information on the card to the receipt form.

Next, the cashier either calls, or calls someone else to call, to check the validity of the credit card.

Wait, wait, wait!

Either they have to wait two ID cards, usually a driver's license and a credit card (what kind of an ID is a credit card?) or they have to wait to check to a check-approval machine where they again must use a credit card to have their check OK'd.

It's like making those with cash wait needlessly in line.

Fourth on my list, but it's not really about waiting in line, is the look I see in the cashier's eyes when I'm going to pay with cash. It's almost like they think I'm crazy for carrying cash in my pocket.

I'm a big believer in using cash for everything from bills to groceries, although I seem to never have much of it to spend.

In the event for my AT&T calling card, so I can charge long-distance calls I make from other locations to my home phone bill, I do use cash. I have yet to have any trouble or waiting when using cash, and I don't have to pay someone else to use it.

I'd like to walk in a store, just open, and see a checkout lane marked with a big flashing sign "Cash Only. No credit cards. No checks and No Waiting."

Vote the person, not the party

To the editor:

There are some important elections at both state and county levels coming up in November. I hope everyone will examine each candidate on his or her merits and vote accordingly. I do not believe that it is to the people's benefit to have one party monopolize county politics, and I urge everyone to consider what I am saying in the future, as in the past, there will be deserving candidates for every office. Let's not vote for what letter is in parenthesis after the name, but for that person who is best for the job. We can then have a balance that can only be beneficial.

Barton's license revoked

SPRINGFIELD — Disciplinary action was taken against James Barton of Granite City by the Illinois Department of Registration and Education.

Barton's real estate license was indefinitely suspended by DRE as a result of his felony conviction on two counts of bribery in Madison County Circuit Court in April.

Barton, Madison County's former supervisor of assessments, must serve all of his two-years of probation before his license can be reinstated, but reinstatement is not automatic, according to department regulations.

In an unrelated case, Barton is under indictment on charges of conspiracy, bribery and official misconduct.

The disciplinary action was announced in the DRE's recently released "Monthly Disciplinary Report" for August.

Drawings displayed

An exhibit displaying approximately 40 architectural drawings by Alton's noted architect, Lucas Pfeifferberger, will open Oct. 5 at the Alton Museum of History and Art Inc., 121 E. Broadway, Alton.

The drawings have been loaned to the museum by the Missouri Historical Society and will be on display through Oct. 26. Hours are 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday through Sunday.

Lucas Pfeifferberger was born in Germany in 1834 and was brought to the United States at the age of 11 months. His parents settled in Dayton, Ohio and there he apprenticed himself to a carpenter when he was 15. He worked by day, and at night studied the theoretical side of building, preparing himself for the profession of architect.

On a trip from California to Ohio in 1867, Pfeifferberger stopped in Alton and decided to make his home there. He began work as a contractor and later opened an architectural office.

In 1867 he married Elizabeth C. Mather, daughter of Andrew Mather, a well-known businessman in Alton.

Pfeifferberger always had a deep interest in community affairs. He served as mayor of Alton for four terms and was chief of the Alton Fire Department from 1866 to 1872.

In 1883 he helped organize the Alton Building and Loan Association. The exhibit presents a sample of Pfeifferberger's many beautiful Victorian buildings which did exist in Alton, and some that still exist in Alton — designs which were proposed for Alton. Among buildings he designed in Alton were the Lincoln School, erected in 1868, the Madison Hotel, St. Patrick's Church, St. Mary's Church, Garfield School, the Women's Home, Nazareth Home, the Bowman Dry Goods store, the homes of E.M. Dowsy, George Hewitt, J.E. Hayner and Henry Watson.

Pfeifferberger died in Alton in 1918.

Jury awards $1,058,600

GRANITE CITY — More than $1 million was awarded by a jury on Sept. 30 to William Parker, 57, of Centralia.

The case, heard in Granite City by Circuit Court Judge Paul E. Riley, was against the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad Co.

Parker was employed as a carman at the railroad's Centralia facility on Nov. 8, 1982, when his lower back was injured while he moved a set of train wheels by hand. As a result of the injury, his back was operated on. He can no longer work for the railroad nor obtain employment elsewhere, according to a report.

The jury awarded $1,058,600 to Parker, who was represented by John P. Kujawski of the law firm of Kujawski & Rosen of Belleville.

Dealer tells of payments

EDWARDSVILLE — A Collinsville auto dealer testified Tuesday he gave $1,000 in 1980 and another $700 in 1983 to James W. Barton, then Madison County supervisor of assessments, because he believed Barton had been helpful in lowering assessments on his dealership.

Crawford D. "Dave" Croft, owner of Dave Croft Chrysler-Dodge, said his dealership also frequently performed work on Barton's motor home at no charge. Croft testified about the 1983 payment when he was called as a prosecution witness in the recent trial of Fred E. Finck, but had not mentioned the $1,000 payment in the earlier trial. Croft testified in Circuit Court in Edwardsville Tuesday as a prosecution witness in the trial of Gerald Bassett, who worked in Barton's office. Croft's testimony did not like the payments or assessment reductions to Bassett.

"I had never seen the man [Bassett] before today," Croft said under cross-examination by Bassett's attorney, Robert H. Rice.

Croft said he had never talked to Bassett, either. Croft has been given immunity from prosecution.

Bassett is charged with 23 counts of official misconduct, four counts of bribery and one count each of conspiracy to commit official misconduct and conspiracy to commit bribery.

Still awaiting trial for their alleged participation in an assessment reduction kickback scheme are Barton, Bassett's father, lawyer Merle C. Bassett, and lawyer Robert Quinn. Finck, a former member of the Madison County Board of Review, was acquitted in August of charges of official misconduct, obstructing justice, conspiracy to commit bribery and conspiracy to commit official misconduct.

Earlier on Tuesday, seven witnesses called by Special Prosecutor Bruce D. Locher testified they had received assessment reductions for business and residential properties.

Hospital request for imager triggers flap

ALTON — History is repeating itself as local medical facilities battle over whether a major piece of scanning equipment should be brought to the area.

The controversy is over Alton Memorial Hospital's request to be certified by the state to operate a magnetic resonance imager (MRI) in the hospital.

The MRI is a magnetic scanner, similar to the common CAT scanner, used to study the head, spine and other parts of the body without the dye, injections or radiation that the CT scan uses.

Alton Memorial plans to operate a mobile MRI, to be leased and shared with St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City.

But the hospital must prove to the Illinois Department of Public Health that the area demonstrates a need for the equipment and that it will not unnecessarily duplicate a service already in the area.

A public hearing, which must be offered when health care facilities are considering the operation of major medical equipment, was requested by Alton's St. Joseph's Hospital. The hearing was to be held in council chambers at Alton City Hall on Friday.

St. Joseph's officials said they could not comment at this time on their reasons for requesting the hearing, but said they would attend the hearing.

Personnel of St. Anthony's Hospital in Alton also plan to attend the hearing, but only as observers, said Executive Director William Kessler.

Kessler said St. Anthony's hopes to establish some kind of working relationship with Alton Memorial with the MRI.

"It seems to me that down the road this kind of technology opens up the opportunity for a community-operated facility jointly owned by area hospitals," he said.

Apparently Wood River Township Hospital had hoped to take part in bringing the mobile MRI to the area.

"I would not like to see it come here at all," said Eugene Cowsett, president of the Wood River Hospital. "But if it had to, we'd like to have been asked to be part of it."

One doctor who does not want the unit under any circumstances is Bruce Vest, who purchased a $2.5 million MRI last year for his Doctor's Clinic in Alton.

Vest said Alton Memorial's request would be a duplication of services because his unit is capable of fulfilling the area's MRI need on its own.

A similar battle raged several years ago when Vest purchased the area's first CAT scanner, a scanner similar to MRI, and operated it out of St. Joseph's Hospital. St. Joseph's had been denied permission from the state to install its own unit because of the scanners available in the St. Louis area.

Vest, a private physician, is not under the jurisdiction of the health department concerning the MRI or CAT scan, because he requested to use the equipment on an out-patient basis only, said Bill Ewing of the Department of Public Health.

He said private doctors must be certified by the state for the use of equipment only if they request inpatient services.

Ewing said the determination of need by the state in Alton Memorial's case will be based on the services provided by the equipment, not the equipment itself.

He said Alton Memorial is requesting the use of the MRI for an inpatient, as well as out-patient, service, while Vest operates on an out-patient basis only.

This, he said, would not appear to be a duplication of services.

"So what we may be dealing with here is a duplication of equipment, but not a duplication of services," Ewing said.

Vest was angered that Alton Memorial would be considered for an MRI when he was offering a still-new unit to the community.

"We already have an MRI in the area that is not being utilized," he said. "Bringing in another one would be an unnecessary duplication of services and would probably just end up in a price war."

David Ollenbittle, technical manager of Alton Memorial's medical imaging department, disagreed.

"This community has shown a great enough need for a cost-effective MRI," Ollenbittle said. "Between Alton and Granite City, there will be a large enough volume to justify another MRI in the area."

Vest accused doctors in the Alton area of running unnecessary tests on patients and referring their patients to St. Louis for MRI scans to avoid using the MRI at the Doctor's Clinic.

"If we have such a need in the area, why am I only doing four or five scans a day, when we are equipped to do 15?" Vest said. "Of those we're doing, only about one every two weeks is from Alton. They rest are from out of town."

St. Louis hospitals with MRIs were unable to provide any statistics on usage by Alton-area patients.

Ollenbittle said the doctors operating out of Alton Memorial refer patients to MRIs throughout the area without favoritism.

He also insisted that the communities in Alton and Granite City have shown the need for what he said the hospitals are prepared to offer — the most cost-effective MRI available for the patient.

Ollenbittle claimed that because Alton Memorial would be leasing rather than purchasing a unit, it will be able to run the scans for an average of $600.

Ollenbittle said he doesn't expect any difficulties with the public hearing or with the review from the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board, which would receive a recommendation from the Department of Public Health sometime in December.

Ewing said the hearing will allow anyone concerned with Alton Memorial's request to make comments on the subject.

"One of the criteria for the department's review concerns community support," he said. "If large numbers of people voice disapproval, that is certainly something we would pay particular attention to."

Baby Eric dead; had transplant

Baby Eric, the youngest child to undergo a heart transplant in Missouri, died Oct. 1 at 6:48 a.m. at Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital. The cause of death was infection and cardiac failure.

The child was born to a couple from the St. Louis area on Wednesday, Sept. 17. One week later, he underwent surgery to transplant the heart of a donor in a procedure that lasted 9½ hours. For a short period of time, the baby made slight improvement, but complications developed and the child's condition deteriorated.

The parents of Eric, who were with him at the time of death, said, "He was a very brave baby who fought very hard to live."

They supported the efforts to save their child by a heart transplant, and ask that any donations be made to the Baby Eric Tribute Fund to further cardiac research at Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital.

qualified by collective bargaining arrangements already in place. But collective bargaining agreements made after the education law must comply with the minimum standards called for in the law.

The guidelines contain references to standards for evaluators as well as procedures for disputes on evaluator qualifications.

Many details to implement the evaluation plan are left to local school districts. Those details are potential negotiating points between teachers and administrators.

Walmesley said some District 9 administrators have received evaluation training. Such training is required by the state education board, he said.

Though the law calls for all teachers to be evaluated at least once every two years, local school districts can require more frequent evaluations.

All 993 Illinois public school districts must participate in the evaluation law.

Mental illness week Oct. 5-11

GRANITE CITY — Noting that mental illness exacts a tremendous price from its victims and society, congress has proclaimed Oct. 5-11 as mental illness awareness week.

Mental Health Services, Southern Madison County Inc., 2024 State St., along with other members of the National Council of Community Health Centers is joining with the American Psychiatric Association and other national mental health organizations in observing the week.

"Mental illness awareness week is set aside to help people learn more about disorders that afflict one out of every five Americans," said Executive Director John V. Johnson.

"Each year, the total cost of mental illness exceeds those for cancer and heart disease," he said. "This observance has been established to encourage people to recognize the signs and symptoms of mental illness and to realize that these disorders are highly treatable."

"Two-thirds of those who seek treatment for a mental disorder have significant improvement with their first treatment," Johnson said. "Sadly, only one in five who suffer from a mental illness seek treatment; the others suffer needlessly."

"Before a person seeks treatment for a disorder, he or she must recognize its symptoms," he said.

"Mental illness awareness week will help people understand that they or their relatives don't have to suffer from debilitating anxiety, panic, phobias, depression or schizophrenia."

Professional mental health counselors, social workers and psychologists at Mental Health Services will answer questions about mental illness and emotional disorders. Residents can call 877-4420 from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday. Also 8:30 a.m.-8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday. Crisis Services of Madison County will respond to calls after hours and weekends at the same phone number.

Jack Kemp featured Republican

New York Congressman Jack Kemp, a potential candidate in the 1988 presidential campaign, will be the headliner for a Missouri Republican Party fund-raiser downtown Oct. 13.

Kemp gained national prominence in recent years for his work on tax reform. He is one of several Republicans mentioned as a possible presidential candidate.

The fund-raiser is set for the Adam's Mark Hotel. Tickets for the 6:30 p.m. reception and the 7:30 p.m. dinner are $1,000 per couple. Tickets for the dinner cost only $150 a person.

Money raised at the event is earmarked for the state GOP's Victory Tour '86 fund, which will be used for a variety of campaigns this year.

State officials scheduled to attend the dinner are Gov. John Ashcroft, Attorney General William Webster, Secretary of State Roy Blunt, Treasurer Wendell Bailey and Auditor Margaret Kelly.

For information about tickets, contact state Republican Party officials in Jefferson City at (314) 636-3146.

Meanwhile, Republican Jack Buechner will host a fund-raising noon reception and luncheon featuring former President Gerald Ford on Oct. 16.

The event will be at the Clayton Holiday Inn. Buechner, of Kirkwood, is challenging incumbent Democrat Bob Young of Maryland Heights in the 2nd Congressional District.

Tickets are $250 each for the reception and $100 each for the luncheon. For information about the event, contact the Buechner campaign at 394-1986.

Trojans have game 'taken away'

By Dave Whaley

Staff writer
MADISON — It was yet another miserable night for football. The last thing anybody wanted was a lot of controversy and arguing. Just get the game over with and get to a dry place. But it didn't happen. The Madison Trojans had a certain touchdown mysteriously taken away from them late in the third quarter, and the Dupo Tigers snuck out of town with a 16-8 win Friday night.

The loss left Madison at 3-2 and scrambling for a playoff berth. Dupo is now 5-0.

Trojan coach Don Smith had the look of a man who had been taken in the locker room. And he certainly thought he had been.

"They took the game away from us," he said of the officials. "We outplayed those guys up and down the field all night, and then we get the game taken away from us by the officials."

Here's what happened. With the score tied 8-8 with 2:33 left in the third quarter, the Trojans were stopped on downs at the Tiger 14. But three running plays netted only six yards for Dupo, and Scott Tieman lined up to punt at his own 5. The wet ball came back high and sailed over his head into the end zone.

A scramble ensued, and the Trojans' DeMarque Crockwell emerged with the football and an apparent 14-8 lead for Madison.

But a discussion among the officials and Dupo coach Gary Mauser resulted in the Tigers getting to kick the ball over again. And this time, the line of scrimmage was the 20 instead of the 20. The play had turned from a Madison score into a 9-yard gain for Dupo.

"I've never seen anything like it," said an angry Smith.

The ruling, according to the officials, was that one of them had blown his whistle inadvertently while players were fighting for the ball in the end zone.

"It was called a touchdown by the head official," Smith said. "And then they come up with this inadvertent whistle after their coach comes on the field and huddles with them. They wouldn't even let me in the huddle. They said it was his timeout, then they come tell me this. It takes points off the board for us. At the worst, we get it at the one-yard line and score."

The game officials refused to discuss the play afterwards, saying only there was an inadvertent whistle. There was no explanation why Dupo got to punt nine yards further.

"They got confused, to say the least," Smith said. "They just marked the ball somewhere and wanted to get on with it."

Neither team could move the ball on their next possession, but Tim Nelson of the Trojans fell on a fumble at the Madison 38 early in the fourth quarter, and Dupo went 30 yards in eight plays, with Derek Tieman going around right end for the touchdown with 6:19 to play. Jeff Plunkett then scored a two-point conversion on a tipped pass.

Dupo has to be one of the luckiest teams around," said East St. Louis Assumption coach Jim Monken, who was scouting the Trojans, "from his team will play next week.

The Trojans had one last chance when quarterback Quincy Williams burst up the middle for 23 yards to the Dupo 33 with 1:30 left, but he fumbled as he was hit, and Dan Howell recovered.

Still, despite four Madison turnovers, it was the officiating that had Smith burning.

"They intimidate officials," he said of the Tigers. "They have respect for Mauser's club, and we get no respect. But they (Dupo) haven't run over me yet. Our teams have outscored them in the three years I've been here, until tonight."

The first half was played in a torrential downpour which resulted in six turnovers, four by Dupo. But the Trojans couldn't cash in on enough opportunities. On their first series, Williams, who completed 7 of 20 for 115 yards, hit Gary Stanley for 43 yards to the Tiger 20. But he fumbled at the end of the play.

Then Larry Mosby blocked a punt, and Antonio Wellmaker recovered at the 28, but the Trojans couldn't move. Early in the second quarter, Stephen Boyd got his sixth interception of the year near midfield. Then Stanley caught a 29-yard pass from Williams to the 15. But on fourth down, Lamont Prothro couldn't catch a pass at the goal line.

Boyd intercepted again and ran in for the touchdown two minutes later, but a clipping call brought the ball back to the 23. The Trojans caught a 29-yard pass from Williams to the 15. But on fourth down, Lamont Prothro couldn't catch a pass at the goal line.

Boyd intercepted again and ran in for the touchdown two minutes later, but a clipping call brought the ball back to the 23. The Trojans caught a 29-yard pass from Williams to the 15. But on fourth down, Lamont Prothro couldn't catch a pass at the goal line.

Madison a 6-0 lead with 2:37 left in the half. Prothro ran in for two points.

The Tigers got a break when Boyd was called for pass interference on the next series, giving Dupo a first down at the 18.

"We talked about that before the game with the referees," Smith said. "We said because of the weather, they wouldn't call anything when both guys go up for the ball. But they call us for it."

The Tigers reached the 2, where Derek Tieman took a reverse pitch from his brother Scott and swept left for the touchdown with 19 seconds left. The same play worked for two points, and the game was tied 8-8 at halftime.

"It was a toss-pitch," Mauser said. "They were coming hard on us on the inside. It was a crucial touchdown for us. If we had gone in at halftime, I don't know what would have happened."

The Trojans were fooled again early in the third quarter when Prothro intercepted and appeared headed for a touchdown. But he tripped over one of his own blockers at the 31-yard line. It was on that drive the Trojans gave up the ball deep in Tiger territory, setting up the controversial play.

"We would have won the game," Smith said. "But we have to get all the bad luck. We had enough to last us all year. And Dupo gets every break in the book. It's tough when that happens. We have some young kids who get down when the controversial goes against them, and they look to me. But it deflates me also."

The Trojans outgained Dupo 152-139 on the night, and the Tigers

GRANITE CITY — Draw the curtain and dim the lights. It's showtime.

Traditionally, what has become the best high school soccer event in the Midwest will begin its sixth run this week.

The cast in this year's 16-team Granite City/Pepsi Cola Tournament of Champions is as usual, star-studded. Twelve of the area's top 20 high school soccer teams will take part.

The 16 teams have been placed into four pools. Each team will play the other three in its pool, with the four best teams advancing to the semifinals set for Saturday, Oct. 11.

Tickets are $1 for students and $2 for adults, and are valid for all games played in one day. Tickets for the semifinal games and championship games will be sold separately.

Both the third place and championship matches will also be held on Oct. 11.

In the tournament's five years, there have been five different winners. Granite City placed fourth last year. DeSmet beat CBC in last year's title game.

Two new teams join the field — Oakville and New Trier of Chicago. The Trevians are a traditional upstate soccer power. Oakville is the last public school from Missouri to win the state championship. They were last in the tournament in 1984.

Here's a breakdown of the four pools:

• A: SLUH, New Trier, Hazelwood West and Rosary.

• B: Hazelwood East, Parkway North, DeSmet and CBC.

• C: St. Mary's, Granite City, Hazelwood Central and Chamaine.

• D: McCluer North, Oakville, Vianney and Parkway West.

The winner of Group A will meet the winner of Group D in one semifinal at 11 a.m. on Oct. 11. The Group A winner will play the Group C winner in the Saturday's other semifinal at 1 p.m.

Here's a day-by-day schedule of the tournament:

Monday, Oct. 6
Hazelwood West vs. Rosary, 3 p.m.
St. Mary's vs. Hazelwood Central, 3 p.m. (at freshman field).
Oakville vs. Vianney, 4:45 p.m.

'The Call' casts dark cloud on game

By Gregg Ochoa

Executive Sports Editor
MADISON — The crucial punt in the third quarter of Friday's Madison-Dupo game might best be remembered as the "Whistle Heard Around Dupo."

For it was a quick whistle which nullified an apparent Madison touchdown. The call in effect, knocked the Trojans for a loop and Dupo went on to post a 16-8 win.

Late in the third quarter, with the score tied 8-8, Dupo punter Scott Tieman stood back to receive the snap. The ball soared over his head and bounced into the end zone.

Tieman scrambled to recover the loose ball along with several Trojan players, mainly Vincent Valentine and DeMarque Crockwell. After the players were unified, the officials ruled that Madison had recovered the ball in the end zone for a touchdown.

That decision prompted a timeout by Dupo as Tiger coach Gary Mauser argued that the back judge had ruled the play was dead when he lost sight of the ball.

The officials huddled and reversed their original decision and ruled no touchdown and allowed Dupo another chance to punt.

Dupo could literally see the momentum change hands.

"In a case like that, because there was an inadvertent whistle, the rules state you must replay the down," said a member of the officiating crew who declined to give his name for the report.

"That's really all I can say. We are not supposed to talk to the media about any calls," the referee said.

Videotape replays clearly showed that Madison did recover the ball for a touchdown, but the tapes did not contain any audio to determine if an early whistle was blown.

"I'd really rather not comment about the call," said Mauser. "But that was a turning point. I'm sure glad it went for us."

Trojan coach Don Smith was agitated and felt like his team was jobbed when points were taken off the board.

"I can't believe that," Smith said. "This is the first time I can remember (the officials) actually changed a call."

The Trojan coach said he would not file a protest.

"What good would it do?" Smith said. "I'm not going to be a poor sport and have that hanging over anyone's head."

Rain not sportswriter's friend

The guy on the radio during the morning drive show said rain was in the forecast. Boy, was he ever right.

I haven't seen this much rain in consecutive days since the beginning of the 1982 baseball playoffs. It's been raining for so long, I thought about getting out the nails and building an ark.

Of course, by the time most of you read this space, chances are it will be sunny and 80 degrees outside.

Rain is no friend of a sportswriter. Rain must not be a Warrior soccer fan, either. The wet weather forced the Granite City-Collinsville game to be postponed three times last week.

Every time both schools agreed to play the following day, the harder it seemed to rain. Perhaps it was a Collinsville plot. The Kahoks really don't want to play the Warriors anyway. They just like talking about them.

The two teams are scheduled to play one another on Oct. 15 at the Gamble. That game, too, is a makeup game after the Sept. 11 meeting was cancelled because of, you guessed it, rain.

So the Warriors, who hadn't played a game since Saturday, Sept. 27, stood in limbo. Practice sessions were moved indoors and the waiting continued.

For the sake of Greg Patton, the athletic director at Granite City High School, let's hope the weather is nice all this week when

Sports Comment

By Gregg Ochoa

The school host its sixth annual Tournament of Champions. Patton and his staff have spent long hours working out the details of the tournament. Numerous college scouts have already made their travel plans to take a peek at the talent that will be on display.

Speaking of rain, it came down in buckets a week ago when Granite City played Collinsville Sept. 26 in football. The start of the game was delayed 30 minutes. I guess to allow the field to get wetter.

But the Warrior fans toughed it out. I tried to stay dry in the press box (somebody tried to set the facility on fire the next night). While Collinsville fans had the luxury of some cover, the stands on the opposite side of the field are out in the open. And the way it was raining, an umbrella offered little protection.

The Granite City fans scampers for cover while the Kahok supporters stood underneath the awning and sang the repeated chorus of "99 Bottles of Beer On The Wall." By the time they were down to 70 bottles, I was ready for one myself. Thank heavens the game finally started.

It's always fun to watch football in the rain. I'm sure the people who clean the uniforms are probably not that thrilled.

You can always tell when a new player enters the game. His uniform is spotless. If he plays offensively, a defensive player probably can't wait to tackle him and introduce him to the playing surface.

The only bad part about the rain is it makes taking notes difficult. An ink pen doesn't write too well on a soggy piece of paper.

But then again, it could have been worse. The fans could still be singing "99 Bottles of Beer On The Wall," or I could have gone to watch the Cardinals play on Monday night.

GETTING THEIR KICKS: Brian Levin of Granite City kicked three field goals and converted five extra points to help Peru State (Neb.) to a 44-14 win over Concordia College. Levin, a sophomore, hit from 34, 38 and 36 yards. On the year, Levin is 7 of 10 in field goals and has made all seven extra point attempts. Ryan Weeks kicked a 42-yard field goal for Tennessee Tech in a losing cause against UT-Chattanooga. Weeks, a freshman from Granite City, accounted for the Golden Eagles' only points in a 33-3 loss.

Steve Stamps of Granite City is one of 24 anglers who have qualified for Operation Bass' Red Man Tournament Trail Regional Classic this weekend on Kentucky Lake, near Paris, Tenn.

Stamps accumulated 93 points for catching 20 pounds, 15 ounces of bass in six Red Man Illini Division tournaments. Stamps' score, based on a system of points and points, placed him in 24th place in the 24-man qualifying field from the Illini Division.

Qualifiers from the Illini will meet the top 24 from the Great Lakes, Carolina, Ozark and Bama divisions, to compete for a Chevrolet S-10 pickup truck and a fully-rigged Ranger bass boat powered by an Evinrude XP-150 and a Minn Kota electric trolling motor, valued at $39,000. An additional $15,000 will be divided amongst the second through 10th place finishers.

The top 10 finishers will advance to the prestigious Red Man All-American Nov. 9-16 at Lake Havasu, Ariz., where they will meet 30 others for a first place prize of $100,000, the largest cash prize of any sportfishing event in America. An additional $50,000 will be divided.

had come into the game averaging over 300 yards rushing per game. Ron Hunsaker led all rushers with 82 yards. Derek Tieman had only 22 yards, but two touchdowns.

The Tigers were penalized eight times for 65 yards, while Madison had only three penalties for 34 yards. Still, Smith wasn't happy. "It wasn't fair, because we worked so hard," he said. "I could protest it, but it wouldn't change the outcome of the game. We just can't afford to lose anymore."

"It was one of the worst of-ficiated games I've ever seen."
